Building Art

We have formed a great partnership with the talented, creative muralist Nigel Sussman. Nigel has now done three projects for us at buildings. Why art? Well, from a real estate view it accomplishes a few things: it is an instant creative “place making” that draws customers, art fans, selfie takers, and the curious; it discourages graffiti, as taggers respect the murals, and stay away; it personally livens up not only boring, neglected walls, but also lightens up the heart of this developer.
